CONFESSES THAT HE KILLED HIS WIFE

CHARLTON CAUGHT TODAY AND BREAKS DOWN AND TELLS HIS STORY.

ARRESTED IN HOBOKEN

After Being Identified He Says He Struck His Wife With Mallet
and Then Pt Body
In Trunk.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, N. Y., June 23.—Porter
Charlton, husband of the woman whose body was found in a trunk in Lago Como, Italy, arrived here on a German liner at Hoboken today and was arrested.

He gave the name Charles W. Colman, but the Hoboken police say that at the station he broke down and admitted he was Charlton.

Charlton, a brother of Mrs.
Charlton, was summoned when Charlton was arrested. He took one glance at the prisoner and said the man was Charlton.

Later Charlton confessed to the murder in a signed statement to the police.

Charlton said he and his wife quarreled; that he struck her with a mallet and killed her, and that he put the body in a trunk and sank it in Lago Como.

The Italian police at first thought that Charlton had been murdered also and dragged Lago Como in hopes of finding his body. Later they traced him from the scene of the woman's death on board a vessel bound for America.

Captain Scott, a brother of the dead woman, pointed a loaded revolver at Porter Charlton in police headquarters this morning, but was disarmed before he had time to shoot.

hands of the jury tonight. Both de-

REGENTS REFUSE TO ACCEPT THE TABLET

Memorial to Prof. Richard T. Ely Presented by Senate. Class Is Rejected.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]
Madison, Wis., June 23.—The board of regents of the state university today refused to accept the memorial of this year's graduating class. The memorial is a bronze tablet with the words of Prof. Richard T. Ely in 1894, when he was on trial for radicalism. The tablet took the position that in a great institution like the University of Wisconsin there should be no denial of the right of free speech. The regents privately say the University tendency is growing too radical too strongly socialist and that such an outburst by the students could not be permitted.

mony, Monday evening.

died. Detectives are working on the theory that she was shot by the man who was with her at the time of the shooting, who is not now to be found.
Others claim, however, that a hunter's stray bullet killed her.

MILLIONS INVOLVED IN VICTORIA SUIT

Henry Craft And Others Claim $4,600-
000 From Heirs of Dunsmuir Estate For Alleged Conspiracy.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Victoria, B. C., June 23.—What promises to be the most sensational lawsuit in the history of British Columbia came up for trial today. The action brought by Henry Craft and others against Hon. James Dunsmuir, the late Premier, and other heirs of the celebrated Dunsmuir estate, which acquired millions by the development of coal lands on the Pacific coast.

The plaintiffs in the suit claim $4,600,000 for alleged conspiracy respecting an option on lands in the Esquimalt and Nanaimo railroad belt.

The defendants are owners of lands on the Cranberry, nanaimo and other districts. The plaintiffs claim that they obtained their development on coal lands, and negotiated for the sale of their rights.

They allege that the defendants conspired as to the granting of a second option in order to cloud their registration of the first option, in an effort to prevent competition in the coal producing business, which they claim the defendants have monopolized.

PRINCE OF WALES IS SIXTEEN TODAY

Flags Were Displayed on All Public Buildings in England in Honor of His Royal Highness.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
London, June 23.—Flags were displayed on all public buildings today and the customary official salutes were fired in observance of the sixteenth birthday anniversary of Prince Edward of Wales, eldest son of King
George and heir to the British throne.

Prince Edward, or the Duke of Cornwall, as he has been styled since the accession of his father to the throne, has recently joined his ship at Dartmouth. Within the next year or so he will probably start on a world cruise as it is customary for all British princes to make in their youth.

A typical Anglo-Saxon he is Prince Edward and extremely popular among his fellow cadets in the navy. He is known among his mates as a thoroughbred sportsman. He could ride his pony at 5 years of age and later he became proficient in swimming, cricket, football and boxing. Cross-country running, however, is his favorite sport and it is probable that few boys of his age in all England can outdistance him.

Now that he has entered upon his seventeenth year it is likely that he will be created Duke of Wales at an early date. If the investiture takes place in Wales, two towns, Carmarvon and Cardiff will contend for the honor.

TO DIE ON GALLOWS FOR TRIPLE MURDER

Unless Saved by Legal Formalities,
J. C. Hunter Will Be Executed
At Savannah, Ga., Tomorrow.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Savannah, Ga., June 23.—Unless saved by legal formalities, J. C. Hunter will die on the gallows in the Chatham county jail tomorrow for the murder of his wife, Mrs. Magie Hunter, and her daughter, Mrs. Eliza Gibbler, and her daughter, Mrs. Carrie Gibbler.

The murders were committed in the Hunter home in the heart of the city last December and were among the most brutal in the criminal annals of Savannah. It was at first suspected that the crimes had been committed by a negro and for a time there were fears of a bloody race riot. Within a few hours after the discovery of the triple murder the police raided the negro districts of the city and more than 150 negroes were taken into custody on suspicion.

Within a few days, however, the charges were fastened upon Hunter, the husband of one of the victims. Evidence was brought to light that he had quarreled with his wife and had separated from her on account of her alleged unfaithfulness. This, it is believed, furnished the motive for the crimes.

On the afternoon of December 10
the attention of a passing patrolman was attracted to the house by hearing music from within. A ghastly spectacle met the officer's eyes when he forced an entrance to the house.
Sprawled hideously about the hall and rooms of the home, Mrs. Eliza Gibbler, aged 70 years, and her daughter, Mrs. Hunter, were found dead, while nearby lay Mrs. Hunter, dying, with her skull beaten in. A bloody ax on the floor showed how the women had come to their deaths.

The murders were most brutal.
Mrs. Gibbler was killed as she sat in her easy chair reading. Her gray hair was blood-stained where the ax crushed her skull. Beside her body on the floor were her newspaper and her skull, split in two. A bloody ax lay nearby.

The most curious fact in the case was that while she was attempting to defend her mother, and Mrs. Hunter, whose body was found near the door, had probably been struck down as she attempted to escape from the house.

FIRST SAFE FOR RADIUM STORAGE

Has Just Been Completed For British Corporation—Is Built of Lead And Steel.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
London, June 23.—A safe, the first of its kind constructed, has just been completed for the British Radium Corporation. It was specially constructed on the design of the technical advisers of the corporation for the storage and protection of radium, and though only about three feet in height, it weighs a ton and a half.

Experiments made by experts proved that practically the only metal which would withstand the great penetrating power of radium emanation was lead, but as this was not at the same time burglar-proof the safe was constructed with an interior shell of three-inch lead and an outer cover-ment of a similar thickness of steel.

Another difficulty was the fitting of door to prevent the escape of any ray of light. This was secured by constructing a circular, hinged door, which has a "dead" fit, and has an ingenious contrivance for immediately resealing any wear and tear caused by opening and shutting the door.

Still another safeguard had to be taken to prevent loss of emanations when the door is opened. To meet this condition two valves were fitted into the door, through which tubes of mercury are passed for the collection and storage of the emanations.
Owing to the extreme security of radium and the demand far exceeding the supply, the price quoted has reached $100 a milligramme, or something like $2,000,000 an ounce.

FOUND HIS TRUNK LOCK BROKEN ON RETURN HOME

Ira Vevoll Loses Nothing But Lock Out Makes Great Fuss Nevertheless.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]
Upon returning last night from a three days' trip to Milwaukee and Chippewa Falls, Ira Vevoll, formerly employed as teamster by the Hayes brothers, and residing in a temporary shack on North Pine street, found that the lock on his trunk had been broken, but that nothing had been stolen. Vevoll, who was out one time confined in an asylum, made a great fuss over the matter and as he is almost totally deaf, was a hard subject to handle. He was finally quiet-ed down and also induced to deposit in a bank a considerable amount of money which he has been carrying in his person while sleeping in the shack.
He calls home, it is probable that he would have a more serious robbery to report in a short time.

STABBED FRIEND WITH PITCHFORK

JOHN NEWBOUR MADE VICIOUS
ASSAULT ON HENRY SAUM

[BY UNITED PRESS.]
Accused of assault with intent to do great bodily harm, John New-bourn, a shoveler employed by the C.
M. & St. Paul Ry., who was arrested last night after stabbing Henry Saum with a pitch fork, is confined in the jail in default of $800 bonds and will appear for examination Monday morning at ten o'clock. His victim, whose right lung was penetrated by a tine of the fork, is confined to the home of his son-in-law, Henry Horn of Washington St., and if his wound proves to be more serious than it now appears, the charge against his assault will be changed to that of assault with intent to kill.

According to a statement made by Newbourn last night after being arrested, the trouble arose over certain alleged slanderous remarks made by Saum to Newbourn regarding the latter's wife. Newbourn claims that Saum, who is employed on the section by the C. M. & St. Paul Ry., came to his home, 901 Hickory St., last night at five o'clock to secure some cabbage plants. After the plants had been given him, Saum, so New-bourn claims, made insulting remarks about Mrs. Newbourn.

"I was ready to defend her," said Newbourn, "so I took the pitch fork and stuck him in the breast with it.
I did not want to hurt him and I only pushed the fork a little bit. He went away and so far as I could see,
he was not hurt."

Not realizing that the wound was in any way serious, Saum walked to the office of Dr. E. F. Woods who attended him and upon examination found that one of the tines had penetrated his chest on the right side between the fifth and sixth ribs and entered his lung. According to the physician, there is danger that inflammation may set in if the tine of the fork happened to be rusty or any infected foreign substance lodged in the lung. Up to a late hour today, however, no disquieting symptoms had developed. The injured man is a widower and fifty-five years old.

Immediately after the matter had been reported to the police, Chief Appley and Patrolman Fleming began a search for Newbourn, who was found at work in the St. Paul coal sheds and brought in the police station where he gave his version of the trouble. He appeared into municipal court this morning and pending examination, which was set for Monday at ten o'clock, was confined in the county jail in default of $800 bonds. Mrs.
Newbourn is said to be visiting in Whitewater at the present time.

This is not the first time that New-bourn has been charged with a serious offense as the police records show he was arrested three years ago by former Chief of Police William Appley for the alleged shooting of a St. Paul detective. Newbourn had been discharged by the company and was later suspected of tampering with the switches, supposedly for motives of revenge. The detective lay in wait by the interlocking plant one night and seeing a man approach, called on him to halt. The intruder opened fire and the officer was badly wounded.

Although the detective is alleged to have identified Newbourn as the man who did the shooting, the evidence was not considered conclusive and the prisoner was released. Saum also has a police record but is said to be of a peaceful disposition and has never appeared except for intoxication.

NUPTIALS OF MISS ADELINE SHAW AND H. L. POLAN TUESDAY

Well Known Milton Young Lady Wedded to Ohio Young Man. A Graduate of Milton College.

Milton, Wis., June 23.—At the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Shaw on Tuesday, June 21, occurred the marriage of Miss Adeline Almina Shaw to Mr. Herbert Lewis Polan.

At four o'clock in the afternoon, the bridal party descended the stairs to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding march played by Miss Bernice Burdick, a cousin of the bride. Rev. Edwin Shaw read the simple ceremony, assisted by Pres. W. C. Daland and Rev. George Burdick. The bride was attended by her cousin, Leta Shaw, and the groom by his brother, W. Guy Polan. The bride was becomingly gowned in a white silk handmaiden trimmed with lace, and carried a bouquet of cream roses. Her going away gown was of tan, with coat, hat and gloves of the same color. The bridesmaid's dress was of blue silk and she carried white carnations. After the ceremony, a delicious lunch was served to the guests out on the shady lawn. The happy couple stole away to some of their designing friends and in the middle of their lunch on pretense of bidding farewell to some departing friends and relatives, got into the waiting auto and were whisked away to Paris unknown. But an hour later found them in Janesville.

In company with Mr. Polan's father, mother and brother, the young couple will take a trip by auto to Elmhurst, Ill., to visit Mr. Polan's sister, and from there they will go to Jackson Center where they will spend a few weeks with their room's parents. Both young people are well known here, the bride having spent the greater portion of her life in Milton. She was graduated from the Milton high school and attended Milton college for several years, since then she has taught at various places near Milton. She has many school friends both in Milton and vicinity who have for her many warmest wishes. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Polan of Jackson Center, Ohio. He has been attending Milton college for some time and was graduated from that institution just a few days previous to his marriage. He is a young man of good principles whom any town would welcome as a citizen.

The young people were the recipients of many presents both useful and beautiful. Among the useful ones was a check for $100. Many relatives and friends from out of town witnessed the ceremony.

Uncle Sam's Chief Engineer, Who May Have to Settle Chicago Lake Front Problem.

Chicago, Ill.—Attorneys representing the Potawatomi Indians are pressing their claims to rights on Chicago's lake front, worth millions of dollars. The main land, extending into Lake Michigan along Chicago's water front, has constituted a local problem of vital interest for many months. Shipping interests claim the land, as does also the city of Chicago. Now, with a third claimant in the field, the situation becomes even more complex.

One plan which has been suggested for a settlement of this question is that it be left to Chief of Engineers, U. S. A., Col. William H. Bixby. Colonel Bixby has only just succeeded to that position, following Gen. William D. Marshall, who was placed on the retired list. Colonel Bixby has been a member of the engineer corps for 37 years.

The report on the lake-to-the-gulf deep waterway by a board of which Colonel Bixby was chairman was made last year, and is still fresh in the minds of many. Colonel Bixby also was connected with the adoption of regulations for the use of water power at the Soo to prevent reduction of levels in Lake Superior and connecting channels and consequent interference with navigation. He was one of the officials designated for inspection and approval of the destruction resulting from the Charleston earthquake in 1884.

Since 1907 Colonel Bixby has been division engineer of the western division and light-house engineer of the upper Mississippi river and its tributaries. He was president of a board of engineers appointed to survey the Mississippi from St. Louis to the gulf and determine the practicability of a 14-foot channel and its extension to Chicago. In 1909, as special advisory engineer, he accompanied the congressional deep waterways commission, investigating the waterways and improvements in Europe.

Born in Charleston, Mass., December 27, 1849, Colonel Bixby, at the age of 17, entered the Massachusetts institute of technology. A year later his father's death compelled him to take up mercantile work for two years, following which he received appointment to West Point. He was graduated at the head of his class in 1873.

After two years on duty with the battalion of engineers at New York harbor he returned to West Point as an instructor in engineering. In 1879 he was sent to France to take a special course of instruction. After its completion in 1880 he was assigned to make special investigation of the use of iron in European fortifications.

Between 1882, when he returned to the United States, and the time of his assignment to duty at Detroit, Colonel Bixby served at Willett's Point, as engineer in charge at Wilmington, N. C., and Newport, I. I., as light-house engineer of the Fourth district and as engineer and light-house engineer of Cincinnati district, in charge of improvements on the Ohio river and its tributaries from Cincinnati to Pittsburgh.

His promotions were received: First lieutenant, December 9, 1875; captain, July 1, 1883; major, October, 1886; lieutenant colonel, 1901; colonel, February, 1908.

WOMEN who buy groceries might just as well avail themselves of our Profit Sharing Plan as to buy them in the regular way. There are many handsome FREE premiums they might just as well have as not.

Out of every four ladies in Janesville one or more are taking advantage of our plan. One woman last week got a carpet sweeper, another secured an Axminster rug. An other woman just received a set of water glasses. And they cost these women not a cent.

We have a large fine stock of premiums, all displayed here, each one marked showing what it sells for for cash, and how many tickets it requires to get it FREE.

With each purchase we give the premium tickets. An average family accumulates about six tickets per week. In just a short time you will have enough for a present. We sell, in addition to coffees and teas of all grades, chocolate, cocoa, flavoring extracts, spices, oatmeal, baked beans, Rexine, cornstarch, soaps, etc. etc.

We realize that our profit sharing plan would not be a success if our goods did not have merit to anything else on the market and therefore we have been especially careful in making our selections.

And too, in making our selections of the premiums we are just as careful to get first quality goods. Not an article in our stock is inferior, and not one is valued more than it sells for regularly elsewhere. You will find our profit sharing plan very fair in every way, and it is truly an economy.

POSTAL BILL IS PASSED

CONCURRENCE BY SENATE IN HOUSE LEGISLATION IS ACHIEVED WEDNESDAY.

"BIG STICK" BRINGS VOTE

Measure Now Goes to President, Without Conference—His Signature Will Make It Law—Disposal of Deposits Was Main Issue.

Washington, June 23.—Nearly thirty years of effort for the establishment of a postal-savings-bank system had its fruition, when the senate by a vote of 44 to 26 passed the house postal-bank bill without the changing of a word. The bill now only requires President Taft's signature to become a law.

President Taft's action in assuming a "big-stick" policy is regarded as having made the vote a certainty. The vote was 44 to 26. The bill now goes to President Taft without a conference.

Provisions of Bill.

On the main issue of the legislation relating to the disposal of deposits in postal banks the house bill concurred in by the senate provides that 65 per cent. may be redeposited in the local banks and 35 per cent. may be used for the purchase of bonds backed by the taxing power of the national government. There is nothing arbitrary about either of these provisions, however. Five per cent. of the deposits will be retained as a reserve fund.

As security for deposits in local banks, bonds backed by national, state and municipal governments and other securities approved by the trustees may be used.

Create Board of Trustees.

The house bill creates a board of trustees consisting of the postmaster general, the secretary of the treasury and the attorney general, who are vested with discrimination in the administration of the system, including the designation of post offices as postal savings banks.

Deposits in these banks by one person shall not exceed more than $100 a month, or a total of $500, on which interest shall be paid at the rate of two per cent. a year. An account may be opened with one dollar, but stamps may be purchased in the denomination of ten cents for those desiring to accumulate money to be deposited. At the request of the depositor government bonds in amount of $20, $40, $60, $80, $100 and $500 may be purchased with his deposit, the bonds to bear interest at 2 1/2 per cent. These bonds will cover a refunding of the $61,000,000 of three per cent. government bonds outstanding and a new issue of Panama canal bonds. The banks will be required to pay 2 1/2 per cent. interest on postal-bank funds deposited with them.

Household postal savings bank bill, two other important administration measures were passed by the senate. These were the reclamation bond bill, reduced to the $20,000,000 limit decided on by the house, and the bill providing publicity of campaign contributions.

No relief is promised, the forecast being for continued high temperatures.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 23.—Mill men, unaccustomed to the midsummer heat, dropped by the dozens during the day in the big steel mills of the Monongahela valley. At least half the departments in the United States Steel corporation plants at Homestead, Braddock and Duquesne shut down for six hours during the hottest part of the day. Two men dropped dead in the early afternoon at the Homestead plant. In Pittsburg proper five deaths and 35 prostrations were reported.

Philadelphia, June 23.—Ten deaths directly attributable to the heat, with scores of prostrations, was the day's record for Philadelphia. The thermometer stood at 92 officially.

New York, June 23.—Four deaths, three of them in Brooklyn, a number of persons driven insane and 60 or more prostrations marked the hottest day of the year. At Coney Island at least 10,000 persons slept on the sands. The unhappiest ones were those who had to ride in the subway.

WHEAT BREEDING.
Luther Burbank, the plant wizard of California, has a rival in Kansas in Professor A. M. Ten Eyck of the State Agricultural college at Manhattan.

Professor Ten Eyck's specialty is wheat and this is what a recent writer has to say of his work:

"Most of our prophets of the latter day are attuned to the doleful key, and so, when there rises one who speaks with cheerful voice let's give him hall. His habitat is Kansas and his name is Ten Eyck. No fearful voice for him, no heart-from-the-tomb-doleful-sound when he speaks. He is the prophet plenty.

"In twenty years," said James J. Hill, who is one of our most voluminous and quite often most pessimistic prophets, with tongue in his voice, "in twenty years, at the present rate of wheat production, the world will go supperless to bed."

"But not while Ten Eyck is on the job," he says, "a wheat which will fill the world's breadbasket to overflowing and send it to bed with a stomach lined with three square meals and a Dutch lunch after the show. That," he said, "he held forth a handful of golden grains, 'will produce sixty bushels to the acre. It has produced sixty-five and there isn't any reason why it shouldn't keep on producing sixty-five.'"

"What is the hobby of Prof. A. M. Ten Eyck, professor of agronomy at the Kansas State Agricultural college at Manhattan. He knows every variety of the grain by its first name and several of them he has named himself. What James J. Hill prophesied in his most sepulchral voice he knew seven years ago. Thereupon he turned his talents to the soil to breed a wheat that would send the world to bed with a full stomach."

tion in one quality with perfection in another, he has evolved finally a wheat which will produce sixty-five bushels to the acre."

The day has gone by when it is safe to assume that anybody can be a successful farmer. It is no longer a question of muscle and brawn, for science today is at the front, and the brain enters into farm work and contributes in rare degree to success.

The agricultural college is a factor in every well equipped university. Its work is so intensely practical that it appeals to the boy who had planned to leave the farm, and as a result thousands of this class of young men are content to stay by the land and become intelligent producers.

PRACTICAL ECONOMY.

Did it ever occur to you that the standard country road represents not only a waste of land, because of its unnecessary width, but a waste of money to maintain for the same reason. If not, you will be interested to know what the waste means to the state of Iowa. The facts are brought out by a writer in the Technical World for July. They are worth considering, as they illustrate what can be done along the line of conservation in all of the western states.

"Governor B. F. Carroll of Iowa proposes to add eight and one-half million bushels of corn to the annual crop of his state, simply by lopping ten feet off each side of the average country road. He believes that a highway forty feet wide, instead of sixty, would be ample for all requirements, could be more easily and more cheaply kept in good condition and argues that the unnecessary twenty feet of land if returned to cultivation would mean four and three-quarter million dollars added to the wealth of the state each year—$3 for every man, woman and child in its borders.

"The governor outlined his plan before the recent convention of the Iowa Implement Dealers' association. The average country road, he pointed out, is sixty feet wide, whereas forty feet is sufficient. The result is that the middle and sides of the road grow up in weeds and make unsightly highways, the two channels of traffic being separated and bordered by unused and unsightly weed rows and ditches. 'This twenty feet of land might far better be filled and be producing wheat and corn,' urged the governor.

"A little investigation discloses the possibilities of Governor Carroll's plan, not only for Iowa, but for all agricultural states. There are 100,000 miles of country roads in Iowa. This equals 800,000 acres of land. Some of these roads are main arteries of communication and transportation, others are little more than lanes, weed-choked and rutty. The Iowa road law requires a highway to be at least forty feet wide and never more than sixty-six feet. The average width is sixty feet. Governor Carroll's plan to reduce the width from sixty to forty feet would result in cutting down the number of acres devoted to roadway by one-third, a total of 266,667 acres. Assuming $100 to be a fair average price for Iowa farm lands—hundreds of farms are being sold at $150 to $200 an acre—the land thus restored to farming would be worth $26,666,670. Assuming the annual net revenue per acre in Iowa to be $15—another conservative figure—and the yearly income from the restored land would be $4,000,000."

A 60 or 66 foot roadway is legal and the law of custom has come to regard the width as necessary, but a 40 foot roadway would meet every requirement, and the land now growing up to weeds could be reclaimed. Wisconsin can afford to consider the question.

President Van Hise of the state university must have had the Emma Goldman episode in mind, when he addressed the graduating class. Politics and religion are topics which require careful handling. When the fact is considered that one third of the faculty of the Wisconsin university were Bryanites and free silver advocates, when that dangerous doctrine was an issue, there is reason for criticism. The drift toward socialism is fast enough, and needs no encouragement from theoretical political economy.

Roosevelt was never known to hold up an opinion for two months and he won't be likely to do it now. There are too many important questions at stake, and he is too vitally interested to long remain silent. President Taft and the republican party need his moral support and it will not be withheld. Insurgency is figuring without its host when it banks on the ex-president's endorsement.

In spite of President Taft's efforts to economize, the present congress exceeds the billion mark by $80,000,000. River and harbor improvements, known as the "pork barrel" budget, are liberally provided for. The expense account, in any growing business, seldom shows a decrease, and it is not reasonable to suppose that a rapidly developing country will practice economy to any large extent. The people are satisfied when they get the worth of their money.

The millbush could not long endure the 90 degree temperature, and so the postal savings bank bill became a law and congress will adjourn before Saturday. The Lord seems to be on the side of President Taft, and the people will say "amen" when "Uncle Joe" Cannon pronounces the benediction.

The old Forest Park street car line, abandoned two years ago, is being turned up, much to the satisfaction of property owners, who have waited long and patiently for street improvements.

PRESS COMMENT.

The ways of some of the politicians are like the wheels of the sugar trust.—Superior Telegram.

"Thank heaven, another Roosevelt is married and temporarily out of the way!"—Beloit News.

It ought not to be a difficult matter to stick to the party these days.—Milwaukee News.

Particular attention should be given to the comfort of dogs and horses during the hot weather. The actual value of a horse usually helps to remind owners and drivers of this fact, but no less attention should be given to the comfort of the dogs, which will aid in preventing many a "hand dog" scare.—Oshkosh Northwestern.

The Oshkosh Northwestern has become one of the most vicious detractors of President Taft. Just because the president did not think it expedient to keep Editor Hicks in the diplomatic service is no reason for assuming that Mr. Taft considered Mr. Hicks a noncompoop—neither is it a reason for Editor Hicks assuming that Mr. Taft is a rascal.—Madison Journal.

The republican party in congress is gradually but surely keeping its pledges, despite the efforts of those senators who, elected as republicans, have done and are doing everything possible to defeat President Taft's efforts.—Wausau Record-Herald.

The magnitude of the scale upon which the Panama canal is planned may be appreciated from the fact that the lowest bid submitted to the isthmian canal commission for the construction of the steel lock gates at Panama was $5,374,478. It is estimated that the gates will require plates and shapes to an aggregate of thirty thousand tons. It is also evident from this fact that the canal builders are not neglecting actual construction enterprises while they are making the dirt fly in the comparative crud work of digging.—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

Ever think of this? Speaker Cannon states and has not been contradicted. "Too many members introduce bills that they do not want passed." Know what it means? It means that a member, an insurgent member wants credit at home for some half-baked legislation—and at the same time doesn't want it passed. So far things on the speaker, Cannon, the old grizzled czar, says he prefers his own self-respect than to bend to the demagogues and self-constituted righteously who criticize without judgment and without knowledge.—Bau Chairo Leader.

Governor Gillett deserves little praise for stopping the big light in California. At first he thought the majority was for it, and he let preparations for it go on; then he changed his mind, and he has stopped it because he thinks that will be popular. This is the most charitable construction that can be placed upon his conduct in letting matters proceed until big expenditures had been made before taking the step he should have taken at the outset. There is small ground for praising dilatory enforcement of law by those sworn to its enforcement.—La Crosse Tribune.

THE POET PHILOSOPHER
By WALT MASON.
(Copyright, 1909, by George Matthews Adams.)

For this great king let's shed a tear; he's died the second time this year. He makes a KING MENELIK specialty of death, and when he's drawn his final breath, he comes back from the silent shore, kicks up his heels and dies some more. I'd hate to be a laureate, of Abyssinian estate, and have to write a solemn lay when the monarch passed away. It is a simple thing to sob in rhyme, and make the harpstrings thrum, any once a year, but if a king just dies and dies, like everything, why then a bard will lose his grip, and none will blame him should he skip. And does it cause you no surprise, the way this good old monarch dies? We never hear about the ill that lays him out, all cold and still; we merely learn he's stopped his breath, and died an intermittent death. Oh, is it gout or rheumatism that puts the sovereign out of biz? Or does he fall for "it's" fade, and seek the graveyards like their dirks and miss around among his works? Such questions will no answers bring; we only know the good old king, overcome by some malignant fever, curls up and dies on certain dates.

Crab That Climbs Trees.
"An awkward as a crab," does not apply on some of the South Sea Islands, for a crab is found there that not only runs as fast as an average man, but climbs trees with the ease of a schoolboy.

Half teaspoonful of salt.
Sweeten to suit taste.

Three hundred miles was a long way for the president of the United States to travel for a piece of pie.

Mr. Taft made that trip a few weeks ago—from Washington to Millbury, Mass.—to eat the famous pastry of his "Aunt Della" Torrey.

Aunt Della is eighty-four years old, but she has not forgotten how to make the pie the president likes. The recipe printed above is her recipe.

She made apple pie for Willie Taft when he was a boy and regrets that the old fashioned cooking is becoming a lost art.

"The women of today," said the good old auntie to a reporter, "are so carried away with the theater and going to town to 'shop' and all the rest of the fopperies of modern life that they are no longer interested in how to cook."

"Yes," continued the old lady, "I'll be always liked my pies. You know how boys are."

Surely we know what boys are like—or were like—Aunt Della, and we know what they think of the pies that mother and auntie used to make. There are none such nowadays.

As we read over your simple recipe (rememberable, Aunt Della, for what it leaves out rather than what it puts in) and linger over that word "nutmeg," we think of the busy, crisp coveralls of those pies.

Somehow in these days they do not seem to get the crust just right. Has the mixing of the shortening come to be a lost art? And the apples are cooked too much or not enough. And there is not enough sugar or too much.

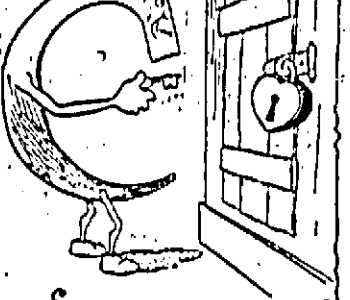

Is it any wonder a fellow should go 300 miles or more to taste a real pie? Why, the pies we get today are just like "thoughtless" pies.

How did they do it, mother and auntie? The crust melted in one's mouth, and there were just enough sugar and lemon and nutmeg to suit the taste of a boy. Nor were they expensive pies. They didn't have the things to do with that the cooks have nowadays. They had to be economical.

And yet those pies were never overdone or underdone. They were made just fit for a boy's appetite.

Now the homey flavor comes back to us over the years!

And how our old throats tighten when we think of mother or auntie sleeping under the thick sod of the village cemetery "back east!"

MAKE YOUR OWN FLY CHASER.

There are on the market a lot of patent fly chasers. Just like most patent stuff, it costs you double money. We have sold different makes from one to two dollars a gallon, yet nothing does better work at any price than this: take one gallon of Cresoda and three gallons of common kerosene, mix as you want it to use, spray or put on with a brush. Keeps off flies, bats, gnats, is healing, antiseptic, and costs about 45 cents a gallon instead of one-dollar or more. Come in, talk to Mr. Pfenning, our Graduate Pharmacist and Chemist, about this or other stock remedies. He can save you half your money. Budger Drug Co., Milwaukee and River streets.

Advertising As Help In General Economy

That a man who advertises his business properly is not only a distributor, but also helps the public generally to economize, was the statement made yesterday by Arthur Brisbane of New York in an address before the Chicago Advertising association.

This is certainly true. In my case, for I know that I have saved my patients in the aggregate many thousands of dollars compared to what their dental work would have cost them if they had gone elsewhere. And then, also, think of the pain I am daily saving people. It pays in many ways to let me do your dental work.

WEDDING BELLS IN MERRY CHIME

MANY JANSVILLE COUPLES TOOK VOWS YESTERDAY.

THE CARLE-BAIRD CEREMONY

At Eight O'clock in the Evening, and Dugga-McGill Nuptials at Four
Were the More Notable Events.

The wedding of Miss Helen Dugga of this city and Henry Sowell McGill of Beloit, took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Dugga, 421 South Academy street, at four o'clock yesterday afternoon. The residence was attractively decorated throughout with flowers and plants and streamers of colored crepe paper, a scheme of green and white being carried out in the parlor where the ceremony took place; red and white in the living room; and blue and white in the dining room. Rev. C. J. Koerber read the service under an arch of southern hollyhock branches entwined with maidenhair ferns, pond lilies, and daisies, from which was suspended a wedding bell of roses, sunflowers, and ferns. The taper of the bell was a sack of rice ingeniously hung in such a manner as to permit the grooms attendants, at the conclusion of the ceremony, to pull a cord concealed in an innocent looking streamer and shower the contents upon the happy couple.

The bride was gown in Swiss embroidery over white satin trimmed with pearls; wore a white tulle veil and wreath of lilies of the valley, and carried a shower bouquet of lily of the valley, lilies of the valley, and lilies of the valley. Little Miss Lillian Dugga, a niece, was ring bearer. The latter was dressed in Swiss embroidery and carried the token in a white rose imbedded in a cluster of fern leaves. Miss Mota Wickett of Escanaba, Mich., who acted as maid of honor, was attired in blue messaline silk trimmed with lace, beads, and eun apices, and carried a bouquet of white roses and fern leaves. Miss Nora Dugga, the bridesmaid, wore light blue messaline silk with apices and pearl trimmings and carried a bouquet of white carnations and ferns. Edward Conant and Leo Coburg of Beloit, attended the groom and the Lohengrin wedding march was played by Miss Ella Baird.

Following the ceremony and congratulations a four-course supper was served, the bride's table in the living room being banked with red roses. Among the out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. William McGill of Escanaba, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wickett of Escanaba, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank McGill of Beloit; Mr. and Mrs. John McGill of Beloit. The couple departed at 9:30 for a honeymoon trip through the northern section of the state and upon their return will make their home in Beloit where the groom is employed in the office of the Fairbanks-Morse company.

Carle-Baird.

The marriage of Miss Josephine Carle of this city and Arthur A. Baird of Los Angeles, Cal., took place at the bride's home, 515 St. Lawrence avenue, at eight o'clock last evening. The residence was beautifully decorated with ferns and sunflowers, white peonies, carnations, and marguerites, and the kneeling stood in the bay window of the living room where the ceremony was performed was flanked by large vases of Easter lilies.

An Krella Chicago orchestra sounded the opening strains of the Lohengrin wedding march, three pieces of the bride—the little Misses Catherine, Harriet, and Josephine Carle—and her nephew, Master Robert Carle, stretched the ribbon barriers from the stairway. Master Norman Carle, Jr., another nephew, was ring bearer. The bride entered the living room upon the arm of her brother, Norman L. Carle. She was gown in white embroidered chiffon over white satin and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. Her only attendant was Mrs. Norman L. Carle, another of her brother's sisters, who wore a white and green chiffon over white satin and carried white sweet peas. Dr. Frank Van Kirk was best man and the bride was given away by her brother, Rev. John McKimney, pastor of Christ Episcopal church, read the service.

Following the reception, the wedding supper was served buffet style in the dining room, where the decorative color scheme of green and white was carried out in a most attractive fashion and where an immense bouquet of lilies of the valley and orchids formed the table centerpiece. There were souvenir slippers and horseshoes of lilies and boxes of the wedding cake but no rice nor confetti figured in the festivities.

While the orchestra was engaged in a concert program, Mr. and Mrs. Baird boarded a touring car and were driven about the city while awaiting the arrival of the midnight train for St. Paul. They will proceed to their future home in Los Angeles by way of Seattle.

Ricks-Bergh.

Miss Edna Ricks and Arthur Bergh, both of this city, were wedded at the Court street Methodist parsonage in Rockford at half past six o'clock last evening. The Rev. J. M. Tubor officiating. Miss Grace Ricks of this city and C. G. Kenzie of Beloit attended them. The happy couple boarded an interurban car for Janesville immediately after the ceremony, after in the week they will visit in Madison and Hoscobel and thereafter they will go to Chicago which is to be Mr. Bergh's new headquarters as railway agent for the United States Express Co.

During the past year the groom has been local agent for the same company. The bride was heretofore an operator at the Rock County Telephone exchange. It would not have been surprising if the Rock County telephone bells had vibrated of their own accord and tolling yesterday. For, by some singular coincidence, and without any mutual advance knowledge of the circumstance, three of the operators who had been employed there recently were married on the same date. The three brides were Miss Minnie Abendroth, who was wedded to Harold H. Green in Milwaukee at half past two o'clock yesterday afternoon, Miss Ricks, and Miss Lillian Cox.

Cox-Strampe.

Miss Lillian Cox and Ernest E. Strampe, both of this city, took their vows before Rev. S. W. Pacha at St. John's German Lutheran parsonage at eight o'clock last evening. Miss Alice Strampe, a sister of the groom, was bridesmaid and Roy Cox, a brother of the bride, attended the groom. Following the ceremony an elaborate supper was served at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. M. A. Cox, on Madison street. The couple will be at home to friends at 557 Chatham street after June 25. The Imperial band, of which Mr. Strampe was a member, serenaded the couple.

Moore-Page.

The marriage of Mrs. Don Moore and Lewis Page, both of this city, was solemnized by Dean B. E. Reilly at St. Patrick's church at seven o'clock yesterday morning.

ANNOUNCEMENT!

E. H. RANSOM.

I wish to announce at this time my candidacy for the office of sheriff of Rock county on the Republican ticket at the coming primary election which takes place in September next. My friends have been insistent that I again make the campaign and looking back at the results of the past few elections I feel that there are many voters who will tender their support in my cause. I believe there is little need for introduction to the people of Rock county other than to say that I have been a resident of La Prairie all my life and to also say that should you see fit to favor me with nomination and election I shall devote my best energies to the conduct of the office to the satisfaction of the public.

CIRCUIT COURT BUSINESS JUST ABOUT CLEARED UP

Judge Grimm Found Nothing of Importance in Waiting—So Tried to Locate New Ginseng Farm.

Nearly all the cases pending in circuit court at this time have been disposed of and the calendar is more nearly cleared up than it has been at any other time in three years. Judge Grimm found nothing of importance demanding his attention when he came here from Jefferson this morning and so he spent a part of the forenoon in an unsuccessful effort to locate the Ginseng farm which is reported to have been started in the neighborhood of Janesville by one of the Florida brothers of Clinton. He returned to Jefferson this noon and will be here for a short time Monday morning while enroute to Monroe to open the Green county term.

RICHARD PARR

Highest salaried detective in the world. Richard Parr, who exposed the great sugar weighing fraud, will receive $1,000,000 from the government for his work.

New York City—Want to make a million? Ask Richard Parr of the New York customs office. Parr is the man who discovered the frauds by means of which the government was being robbed by the sugar trust. For this, and the work he did only a few months, he is to be paid $1,000,000 by Uncle Sam. It is said to be the highest priced piece of detective work ever performed.

This was decided at a two-hour conference between Mr. Parr and Secretary of the Treasury MacVough. A final settlement will be made by the last of the week.

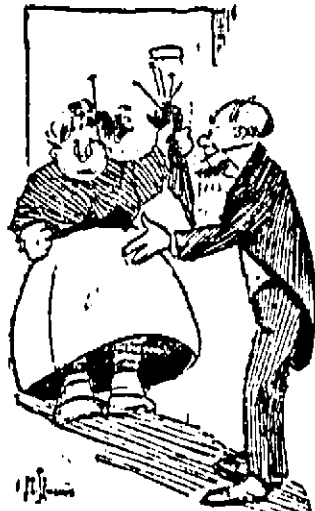

It is learned that ever since Mr. Parr made claim for a moiety in bringing to light the sugar frauds both President Taft and Secretary MacVough have wanted to reward him, but the question of amount and the legality have always stood in the way.

Since Attorney General Wickesham gave an opinion, however, declaring that the law specifically stated that the secretary of the treasury could reward an official to an amount not exceeding 50 per cent of the amounts recovered, all doubt has been removed.

Never in the history of the government has such a large amount been recovered in cases of fraud as in the sugar cases; consequently the officials having in charge the paying of moiety were in doubt about paying as much as 50 per cent or even 25 per cent.

REASON FOR THE SLOW TIME

Irritable Traveler May Not Have Been Convinced but He had to Be Reconciled.

The trains on the branch road never went very fast. There were various reasons for this, all good ones. Nevertheless, travelers from more populous districts sometimes expressed forcible opinions on the subject. Silas Wetmore, who rode back and forth to and from the junction almost every day, took it upon himself to pacify such as were unduly disturbed by the waits and stops of the little sawed-off string of cars.

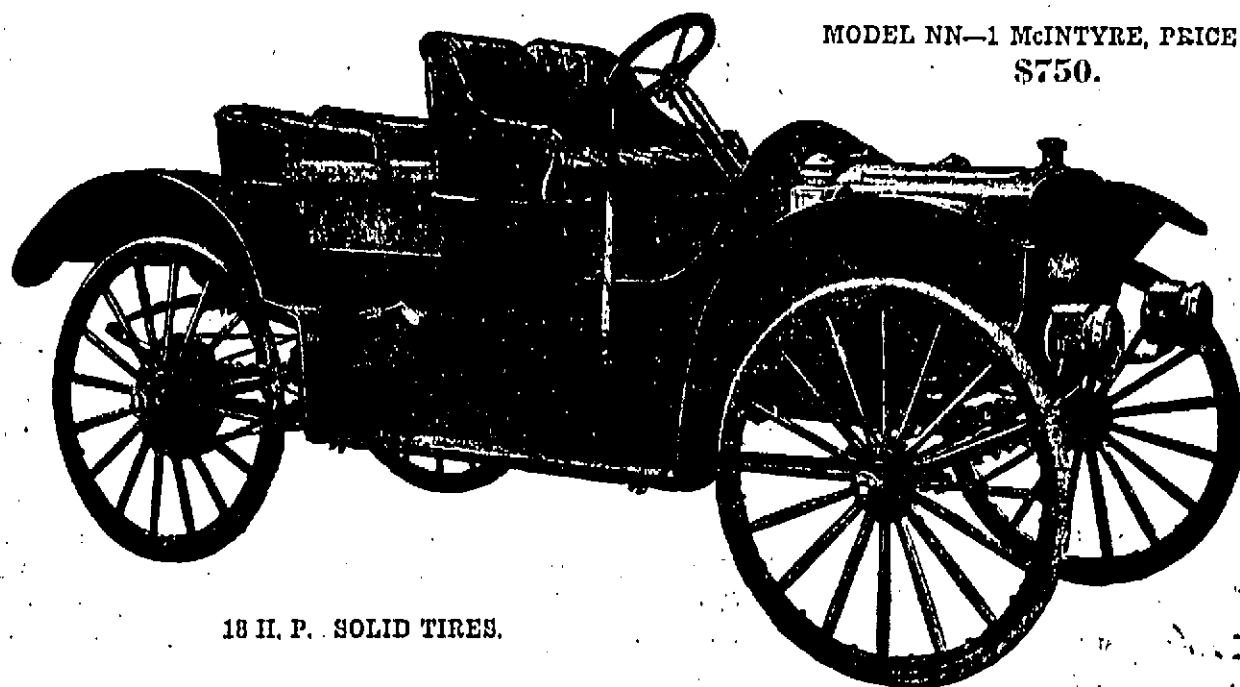

One day a particularly irritable passenger sat next to him. He not only complained that the train was slow but asked to know why it was slow. "What are we stopping for now?" he asked.

Silas looked out of the window. "This is a station," he said, mildly. "Don't see any," said the other. "Oh, there isn't any building," said Silas; "but it's a stopping place."

By and by the train went on. Presently it stopped, apparently in the middle of a field. This time the stranger did not inquire into the reason for halting. But after another 20 minutes the same thing occurred. Finally he broke out again:

"What are we stopping here for? Isn't any station here, is there?" "No station," said Silas. "We're stopping for water."

"Water!" exclaimed the other. "Water! Why, we just took in water not five minutes ago. What do you mean?" "Holler leaks," said Silas, patiently; and the other relapsed into silence.—Youth's Companion.

MODEL NN-1 MCINTYRE, PRICE $750.

18 H. P. SOLID TIRES.

THIS CAR IS A PROFITABLE INVESTMENT --NOT AN EXPENSIVE LUXURY

There is no longer any need of figuring the purchase of a motor car as an expense. The day when people were willing to pay a high price for a machine, simply for the satisfaction of owning one, has gone by.

You can figure the purchase of a McIntyre on the same basis as you would figure any other business expense—the McIntyre will save you time and expense.

The tendency in automobile prices is altogether downward. Many manufacturers have reduced their prices who really cannot afford to do so, for this reason:

They have spent so much money in experimenting and perfecting the mechanical details of their cars, erecting plants, installing machinery, etc., that what they call their "overhead expense" is so high that they must of necessity sell at a high price to make money.

When they reduce their price the value has to come out of the car.

- "To run the machine during the 20 days shown at cost of 45c per day of 30 miles."
- "Have had my machine six months. It has never been in the garage for repairs."
- "Have owned the machine a little over three months, driven a little over 3,300 miles with but $5.20 expense."
- "Have just returned from a hard drive of 60 miles, on which I used one gallon and one-half of gasoline."
- "Very durable and always reliable. No tinkering, no repairing. Always ready to go when I am, day or night."

THE PRACTICAL CAR FOR PRACTICAL PEOPLE

"I have used it on all kinds of roads. It will go any place you can go with a horse and buggy."

"Runs smooth and nearly noiseless. Will climb any hill. Is easy to control. Keeps cool. Easy to ride in and better in every way than you claim."

"It is always ready to go. I can get in and be in town while I would be harnessing a horse and hitching to a buggy."

"When evening comes my horses take a good rest and I take my motor buggy for a spin through the country or to the city."

THE CAR OF SERVICE

"Runs in all kinds of weather. Over bad roads all winter."

"No trouble in climbing hills. Easy work to go through sand, be it ever so deep."

"Am running every day. Will run on any kind of roads, up hill and down. Over icy roads, through snow or mud."

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

A GROUP of us, of which a newspaper artist was one, were discussing things journalistic the other day and the conversation turned upon the work of several of his brother artists.

With each one who was asked he had some fault to find. The technique of the first was "rotten." The faces that the second drew had no expression. The third had no sense of motion. The fourth was a fairly decent draughtsman, but didn't have a real snappy idea once a month.

And so on.

Now, all these criticisms may have been absolutely fair and just. I am not enough of an artist to judge whether they were or not.

But even if they were absolutely merited, that could not prevent the instinctive feeling that swept over all of us that this man was jealous of the men he criticized.

Never run down the achievements of any one in the same line of work that you are.

It doesn't pay.

If you must show your critical ability, show it in regard to some kind of work that you do not do, for other wise, no matter how justifiable your criticisms may be, you will always run the risk of arousing in your hearers the antagonistic feeling, "He is jealous!"

The feeling may be entirely unjust and unfounded, I grant that. But unjust or not, it is a feeling that it pays to avoid running when it can be done so easily as by keeping one's mouth shut at the proper time.

A young teacher came to me the other day highly indignant.

"Some of the folks from my home town," she announced, "asked me what I thought of Ruth as a teacher. I don't like her methods at all, so I just said so, and explained where I thought she was wrong, and now I am terribly jealous of Ruth's successes. Now, isn't that unjust, when they asked me themselves?"

"Yes," I admitted, "unjust, but inevitable."

"What else could I have said but what I thought, when they came and asked me?" indignantly.

"But Ruth goes on in some things," I asked.

"Yes, but I told them her good points," hotly.

"Well, couldn't you have stopped there?"

"But that wouldn't have been telling the whole truth," argumentatively.

"Need one always tell everything one knows and thinks, in order to be truthful?"

"No," thoughtfully, "I suppose not, but I WASN'T jealous. They asked what I thought and I told them."

That's the way we all feel when we try to be honest critics of our fellow workers.

But that also is the way we are not to get judged.

And I don't think it pays.

If it ever becomes necessary to judge a brother workman's output for someone who desires to know its value with a view to purchase, one must, of course, speak of defects as well as merits.

But under any other conditions it seems to me it is far better from a purely utilitarian, as well as a moral, standpoint to speak what good one can and then keep one's lips.

RUTH CAMERON.

THE ART OF BEING UNGRACIOUS.

BY MARY RUSSELL.

It is not a mark of genius to be uncouth and ungracious, though some biographers would have one think so.

To be a Carlyle in ordinary everyday life requires more than just the great and grand to which he subjected all his associates. To have the recent-able airs of a Byron requires more than a wide and flowing collar and flowing hair.

There are great geniuses—and every town has its supply—have not the divine fire of those great ones of earth, so they try to touch off a little red light.

The attitude of the younger musicians and singers of today toward their audience is most ungracious.

At this season the evenings are filled with recitals of varying degrees of excellence. To sit and listen to the painful precision of youthful players, and the reckless thumping of those who are not frightened, requires a great deal of sympathy for the inexperiences of youth on the part of the ordinary auditor. Of course, there is in every audience some one person who listens to the number of some one particular player, or singer, or pianist, with swelling pride, but the auditorium is filled with kindly, well-meaning people who are willing to sacrifice their pleasure for an hour to sustain and aid the young performers to attain to higher things.

To the young artists realize this? Apparently not, since they ignore their hearers in the most pointed manner.

At a recital a few evenings ago the principal player was a very talented young girl. Her playing was remarkable for one so young, but her discourtesy to her hearers was even more marked. She entered the stage without a glance at her listeners, and after playing a selection, turned, with her back to the audience, and left the platform without so much as a look at the applauding hearers, much less a smiling nod or bow.

The impression she created was unpleasant, to say the least. Even the greatest players bow and make an effort to show their appreciation of the listeners. A recital would be a failure without the audience. Why then treat these kindly people with contempt?

It is never a wise plan to cultivate ungraciousness. It is much more likely to show the ill-breeding of the childish individual than to be taken as a mark of superior attainments.

A smile costs nothing and a pleasant bend of the head is advised as removing wrinkles and keeping the double chin in abeyance.

A little practice of these exercises is recommended to the youthful aspirant for public favors—for ungraciousness, even in a genius, is a detriment to success.

As for the man, woman or child who is ungracious habitually there should be a private course in good manners prescribed by the school board and teachers to take the first lessons.

ODORLESS FRYING PAN.

Smoke and Soot Directed Into the Firebox and Up the Chimney.

One of the objections to the process of frying is that of the odor which comes from the frying pan. But a remedy for this purpose has been recently designed which has the merit of overcoming this. The smoke and odor are permitted to pass into the firebox of the stove and thence up the chimney, through the means of a crescent-shaped opening at the side of the pan. With the pan cover on, the natural draft of the range starts a quick and positive circulation through the pan, over the cooking meat or vegetables, carrying down with it all steam and odor. This circulation is made more effective by an air intake space where the handle is attached. This patent air space method of attaching the handle is said to assure a cool handle at all times.

PROPER POSITION FOR THE PIANIST'S HANDS

A New Device Designed to Start the Beginner in the Right Way.

One of the most serious things that the piano teacher has to contend with in her pupils, especially the very young ones, is the tendency to hold the hands at a point on a level with the keyboard or a little below it. It is essential for good playing that this should be corrected and the sooner the better, for if this slowly habit gets a hold on one, it is very difficult to change.

A little device designed to correct this trouble automatically has been recently introduced and it is shown in the accompanying cut. Two brackets secured to the instrument hold a stiff wire in front and a little above the keys so that it is necessary for the performer to hold the wrists high in order to reach the keys. Whenever a lapse is made from the correct position, the player is reminded of the error by the wrist coming in contact with the wire. When once the correct habit is acquired, the device may be removed.

Subject for Debate.

Subject of discussion at Saturday night's meeting of the Lancaster Literary society, "If a Woman Has 'Em, Should She Wear 'Em or Shave?"—Atchison Globe.

CHARMING SIMPLICITY.

The best dressed women, as a general thing, wear simply made gowns, and for the benefit of the woman with good taste, we show today a handsome black costume, with an undergarment of soft, white satin, veiled with black chamois lace. The fabric draperies are in plain black chiffon—the fullness at waist confined under a circle of cut jet.

This model might also be effectively carried out in white lace over gold or silver tulle.

Peculiar Form of Rent.

The vicar of Hilderton, near Kettering, England, has to provide every year two hure plas and some barrels of ale as the rent for a portion of his glebe land. They were duly consumed the other day in front of the rectory.

Relief From Headache.

For headache, bathing behind the ears with hot water often proves of immense benefit.

Can You Use Your Porch All Day?

or when the sun beats down upon it do you have to hastily seek shelter in the shade? You can very easily get the fullest benefit from your porch by using

DROP PORCH CURTAINS

and your porch will be cool, comfortable, secluded; a perfectly alluring spot.

Completely enclosing the porch as they do, they really add another room to your house that is far more cooler than any other room and it will have utmost privacy.

These curtains make a porch a most desirable place to seek shelter from the heat and humidity.

Drop porch curtains are easily and quickly put up. When not in use they fold up out of sight. With proper care they will last for years. The first cost is small and it's the last cost. A postal or phone call will bring our expert with full information.

Janesville, June 22.—In the contest which has been going on for several weeks among the Pythian Sisters the side of which Mrs. C. L. Barnard was the leader lost the battle, and according to agreement that side entertained the winning members in a most delightful way last evening. The method of entertaining them was unique and not only provided a lot of fun but was a great surprise to the winning members who had been kept entirely in the dark as to what the program would be. The principal part of the program consisted of a musical wedding ceremony in which fourteen took part and select readings by Mrs. O. C. Colony, all of which were very well given and truly appreciated. At the close of the program Mr. Jorgensen presented each lady with a beautiful pink carnation and a very nice two course luncheon was served to the seventy members who were present. During the contest ten names have been added to the membership roll and are Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Dowsy, Mrs. E. E. Colony, Mrs. Luella Libby, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hunt, Paul Gray, Will Benson, Mrs. Jennie Shorger and Miss Daisy Shorger.

Building on Farm Near Sharon Burned to Ground Tuesday Night—Own-er Knew Nothing of It Until Next Day.
(Special to the Gazette.)
Clinton, June 22.—The barn on the Rufus Cooley farm, three miles north of Sharon, where A. A. Watts lives, was burned to the ground some time Tuesday night. The contents of the building, horses, harness and other equipment were destroyed. The discovery of his loss was made by Mr. Watts when he went to do his morning chores, only the ashes and a few smoking embers being left. How the fire started is unknown and the mystery is deepened by the fact that none of the neighbors noticed the flames and the Watts family were not aroused. The amount of insurance on building and contents is not known. Benjamin Tiche, a Clinton boy, will give the Fourth of July oration this year at Waubesa, Dane county, where he has been principal of the schools for the past year. Mr. Tiche will attend the university summer school and will get his degree this year.

(Special to the Gazette.)
Milton, June 22.—Milton high school baseball team defeated Mukwanago high school team in a thirteen-inning game Tuesday and won the state high school title. Mukwanago high school baseball team has not been defeated for three years and this year closed their season by defeating East Division of Milwaukee by a score of 22 to 0. They then issued a challenge through the state press to the effect that they claimed the state championship unless challenged and defeated by some other interscholastic team. No challenges were received, and Mukwanago challenged Milton. Milton accepted and Messrs. Yates, Gordon and Whitford carried the team and a few posters overlaid in their touring cars. The game was the best played and most hotly contested one ever played at Mukwanago. Milton finally winning out in the thirteenth inning. The work of both the officials and players was of a high order and there was no doubt that the better team won. The Mukwanago crowd gave a hearty cheer for Milton at the close of the game. The score:
Milton—2 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1—4

The COURAGE of CAPTAIN PLUM

D. JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD
ILLUSTRATIONS BY MAGNUS KETNER

CHAPTER IV.

The Whipping.

Scarcely had the words fallen from his lips when there sounded a slow, heavy step on the stairs outside. The young girl snatched her hand from the door and caught Nathaniel by the wrist.

"It is the king!" she whispered excitedly. "It is the king! Quick—you still have time! You must go—you must go!"

She strove to pull him across the room.

"There—through that door!" she urged.

The slowly ascending steps were half way up the stairs. Nathaniel hesitated. He knew that a moment before there had passed through that door one who carried with her the odor of lilac and his heart leaped to its own conclusion who that person was. He had heard the rattle of the girl's skirt. He had seen the last flash of the door close as Strang's wife pulled it after her. And now he was implored to follow! He sprang forward as the heavy steps neared the landing. His hand was upon the latch—when he paused. Then he turned and bent his head close down to the girl.

"No, I won't do it, my dear," he whispered. "Just now it might make trouble for—her."

He lifted his eyes and saw a man looking at him from the doorway. He needed no further proof to assure him that this was Strang, the king of the Mormons, for the Beaver Island prophet was painted well in that region which knew the grip and terror of his power. He was a massive man, with the slow slumbering strength of a bear. He was not much under fifty; but his thick beard, reddish and crinkling, his shaggy hair, and the fullness of his face, with its foundation of heavy jaw, gave him a more youthful appearance. There was in his eyes, set deep and so light that they shone like pale blue glass, the staring assurance that is frequently born of power. In his hand he carried a huge metal-knobbed stick.

In an instant Nathaniel had recovered himself. He advanced a step, bowing coolly.

"I am Captain Plum, of the sloop Typhoon," he said. "I called at your home a short time ago and was directed to your office. As a stranger on the island I did not know that you had an office or I would have come here first."

"Ah!"

The king drew his right foot back half a pace and bowed so low that Nathaniel saw only the crown of his hat. When he raised his head the aggressive stare had gone out of his eyes and a welcoming smile lighted up his face as he advanced with extended hand.

"I am glad to see you, Captain Plum."

His voice was deep and rich, filled with that wonderful vibratory power which seems to strike and attune the hidden chords of one's soul. The man's appearance had not disappointed Nathaniel, but at the sound of his voice he recognized that which had made him the prophet of men. As the warm hand of the king clasped his own Captain Plum knew that he was in the presence of a master of human destinies, a man whose ponderous red-velveted body was simply the crude instrument through which spoke the marvelous spirit that had enslaved thousands to him, that had enthralled a state legislature and that had hypnotized a federal jury into giving him back his freedom when evidence smothered him in crime. He felt himself sinking in the presence of this man and struggled fiercely to regain himself. He withdrew his hand and straightened himself like a soldier.

"I have come to you with a grievance, Mr. Strang," he began. "A grievance which I feel sure you will do your best to right. Perhaps you are aware that some little time ago—about two weeks back—your people boarded my ship in force and robbed me of several thousand dollars' worth of merchandise."

Strang had drawn a step back.

"Aware of it?" he exclaimed in a voice that shook the room. "Aware of it?" The red of his face turned purple and he clutched his free hand in sudden passion. "Aware of it!" He repeated the words, this time so gently that Nathaniel could scarcely hear them, and tapped his heavy stick upon the floor.

"No, Captain Plum, I was not aware of it. If I had been—" He shrugged his thick shoulders. The movement, and a sudden gleam of his teeth through his beard, were expressive enough for Nathaniel to understand.

Then the king smiled.

"Are you sure—are you quite sure, Captain Plum, that it was my people who attacked your ship? If so, of course you must have some proof?"

"We were very near to Beaver Island and many miles from the mainland," said Nathaniel. "It could only have been your people."

"Ah!"

Strang led the way to a table at the farther end of the room and motioned Nathaniel to a seat opposite him.

"We are a much persecuted people, Captain Plum, very much persecuted indeed," his wonderful voice trembled with a subdued pathos. "We have answered for many sins that have never been ours, Captain Plum, and among them are robbery, piracy and even murder. The people along the coast are deadly enemies to us—who would be their friends? They commit crimes in our name and we do not retaliate. It was not my people who waylaid your vessel. They were fishermen, probably, who came from the Michigan shore and awaited their opportunity off Beaver Island. But I shall investigate this; believe me, I shall investigate this fully, Captain Plum!"

Nathaniel felt something like a great choking fist about up into his throat. It was not a sensation of fear but of humiliation—the humiliation of defeat, the knowledge of his own weakness in the hands of this man who had so quickly and so surely blocked his claim. His quick brain saw the futility of argument. He possessed no absolute proof and he had thought that he needed none. Strang saw the flash of doubt in his face, the hesitancy in his answer; he divined the working of the other's brain and in his soft voice, purring with friendship, he followed up his triumph.

"I sympathize with you," he spoke gently, "and my sympathy and word shall help you. We do not welcome strangers among us, for strangers have usually proved themselves our enemies and have done us wrong. But to you I give the freedom of our kingdom. Search where you will, at what hours you will, and when you have found a single proof that your stolen property is among my people—when you have seen a face that you recognize as one of the robbers, return to me and I shall make restitution and punish the evil-doers."

So intensely he spoke, so filled with reason and truth were his words, that Nathaniel thrust out his hand in token of acceptance of the king's terms. And as Strang gripped that hand Captain Plum saw the young girl's face over the prophet's shoulder—a face, white as death in its terror, that told him all he had heard was a lie.

"And when you have done with my people," continued the king, "you will go among that other race, along the mainland, where men have thrown off the restraints of society to give loose rein to lust and avarice; where the Indian is brutified that his wife may be intoxicated by compulsion and prostituted by violence before his eyes; where the forest cabins and the streets of towns are filled with half breeds; where there stalk wretches with withered and tearless eyes, who are in nowise troubled by recollection of robbery, rape and murder. And there you will find whom you are looking for!"

Strang had risen to his feet. His eyes blazed with the fire of smoldering hatred and passion and his great voice rolled through his beard tremulous with excitement, but still deep and rich, like the booming of some melodious instrument. He hung aside his hat as he paced back and forth; his shaggy hair fell upon his shoulders; huge veins stood out upon his forehead—and Nathaniel sat mute as he watched this lion of a man whose great throat quivered with the power that might have stirred a nation—that might have made him president instead of king. He waited for the thunder of that throat and his nerves keyed themselves to meet its bursting passion. But when Strang spoke again it was in a voice as soft and as gentle as a woman's.

"Those are the men who have vilified us, Captain Plum; who have covered us with crimes that we have never committed; who have driven our people into groups that they may be free from degradation; who watch like vultures to despoil our women; wild wifeless men, Captain Plum, who have left families and character behind them and who have sought the wilderness to escape the penalties of law and order. It is they who would destroy us. Go among my own people first, Captain Plum, and find your lost property if you can; and if you can not discover it where in seven years not one child has been born out of wedlock, seek among the Lamanites—and my shorthills shall follow where you place the crime!"

He had stretched out his arms like one whose plea was of life and death; his face shone with earnestness; his low words throbbed as if his heart were borne upon them for the inspection of its truth and honor. He was Strang the tragedian, the orator, the conqueror of a legislature, a governor, a dozen juries—and of human souls. And as he stood silent for a moment in this attitude Nathaniel rose to his feet, subservient, and believing as others had believed in the fitness of this man. But as his eyes traveled a dozen paces beyond, he saw the young girl gesturing to him in that same terror, and holding up for him to see a slip of paper upon which she had written. And when she had caught his eyes she crumpled the paper into a shapeless ball and tossed it just over the landing to the ground below the stair.

"I thank you for the privileges of the island which you have offered me," said Nathaniel, putting on his hat, "and I shall certainly take advantage of your kindness for a few hours, as I want very much to witness one of your ceremonies which I understand is to take place today. Then, if I have discovered nothing, I shall return to my ship."

"Ah, you wish to see the whipping?" The king smiled his approval. "That is one way we have of punishing slight misdemeanors in our kingdom, Captain Plum. It is an illustration of our intolerance of evil-doers." He turned suddenly toward the girl. "Winnona, my dear, have you copied the paper I was at work on? I wish to show it to Captain Plum."

He walked slowly toward her and for the first time since her warning Nathaniel had an opportunity of observing the girl without fear of being perceived by the prophet. She was very young, hardly more than a child he would have guessed at first; and yet at second and more careful glance he knew that she could not be under fifteen—perhaps sixteen. Her whole attire was one to add to her childish appearance. Her hair, which was rather short, fell in lustrous dark curls about her face and upon her neck. She wore a fitted coat-like blouse, and knee skirts which disclosed a pretty pair of legs and ankles. An Strang was returning with the paper which she handed to him the girl turned her face to Captain Plum. Her mouth was formed into a round red O and she pointed anxiously to where she had thrown the note. The king's eyes were on his paper and Nathaniel nodded to assure her that he understood.

"I am like a gardener who compels every peevish neighbor to go into his back yard and admire his first aprons," laughed the prophet jovially. "In other words, I do a little writing, and I take a kind of childish joy in making other people read it. But I see this is not in proper shape, so you have escaped. It is a brief history of Beaver Island written at the request of the Smithsonian institute, which has already published an article of mine. If you happen to be on the island tomorrow and should you return to this office I shall certainly have you read it if I have to call all of my shorthills into service!"

He laughed with such open good humor that Nathaniel found himself smiling despite the varied unpleasant sensations within him. "Do you write much?" he asked.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, June 23, 1870.—Jottings.—Considerable of a crowd of picnickers went to Clear Lake today.

Only 95 deg. in the shade this afternoon. Sidney Smith used to wish that he could take off his flesh and sit in his house. For our part we can dispense with the house also. Nothing but complete spirituality, can look such weather as this.

The brickling on the Baptist church goes on slowly. The building will be greatly improved and the society will have good reason to feel proud of the edifice when completed.

It is estimated by good judges that there is grain enough still in the hands of Rock county farmers to bread the people another year, should more be raised.

The completion of the Monterey bridge is a great convenience to the travelling public.

Mr. Simpson and William Ringer are rapidly pushing their dwelling houses to completion, on-on—we forget the street. They will be neat and convenient houses.

Squire Burgess hints that a certain ceremony will be performed at Popo's Springs on the Fourth of July, that is not down on the bills. As a large crowd is preparing to go, the Squire must perform according to promise.

Ex-Mayor Loveland has moved his family to Chicago for the present.

DAILY DIET HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN
Food Specialist.

WHEN TO DRINK WITH MEALS.

Experiments conducted in a western university seem to show that it is bad to drink at meal time. That depends upon the food. Carnivorous animals bolt their food and do not drink immediately. The undiluted gastric fluid is necessary for the digestion of protein which should remain long in the stomach. But fruits and vegetables need little gastric fluid and are naturally digested in the intestine. By being diluted they pass sooner from the stomach and avoid fermentation. This again indicates the disadvantage of indiscriminate mixing of foods. A warm drink after fruits or vegetables is beneficial.

Wisdom.
Wisdom does not show itself so much in precept as in life—in a firmness of mind and mastery of appetite. It teaches us to do, as well as to talk; and to make our actions and words all of a color.—Seneca.

Invite It.
If you want opportunity to knock at your door tomorrow you've got to make a bid for it today.

All Weather Good.
Sunshine is delicious, rain is refreshing, wind braces up, snow is exhilarating; there is really no such thing as bad weather, only different kinds of good weather.—John Ruskin.

Said Uncle Silas:
"There's this difference between a thirsty dog and a thirsty man—a thirsty dog knows when it has had enough."

When the Pace is Too Swift.
Is the social order of which you are a member of great individual benefit to you? Take care! You may be one of its mendicants before you know it!—John A. Howland.

Fame Before Virtue.
The thirst for fame is greater than the thirst for virtue; for who would embrace virtue itself if you take away its rewards?—Juvenal.

STRIKING BLACK HAT.

The hat shown in today's sketch is remarkable for its simplicity, but the clever placing of two gorgeous black plumes on a hat of fine black cloth, which turns abruptly on left side, makes it an exceedingly smart model.

BRIDAL LORE FOR JUNE WEDDINGS.

Materials for the Bridal Gown.
There is a favor of the eclectical in the bridal gowns of today—chiffon, silk, satin and even in mousseline.

More is also favored by some brides, and the embroidery and silver dots are making marriage almost obligatory—only love laughs not only at locksmiths but at dressmakers.

Modified princess gowns are the keynote to bridal modes. Front panels are all embroidery, and train the Watteau period and effects.

Folded drapery over the bust is very becoming, especially if laid diagonally from right shoulder and the left draped with lace.

SEASONABLE ADMONITION.

Here is advice that none should fail to duly note:
When going for a summer sail,
Lest friends and relatives should wall,
Don't rock the boat!

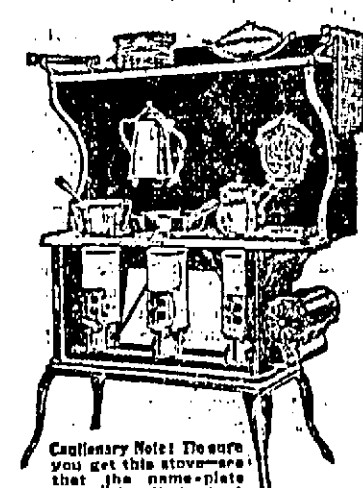

Find a man who rocked the boat.

AN UP-TO-DATE STOVE

Do you realize there is no longer any reason why you should use a coal range? Oil is cheaper than coal; it is lighter and easier to handle, and gives an intense heat. Provided you have the right stove, oil is more economical, cleaner and less trouble. Have you seen the

New Perfection Oil Cook-stove

The accompanying illustration gives you only a rough idea of its appearance. You really can't appreciate it until you either use it yourself, or talk to someone who has used it. It does everything that a coal range will do—except heat the room. The New Perfection Oil Cook-stove will do anything from heating a kettle of water to cooking a course dinner, but it won't heat a room. It doesn't "smell," it doesn't smoke. It can't get out of order. Light it and it is ready. Turn it down and it is out. Only a woman who knows the trouble of carrying coal and cooking in a hot kitchen can appreciate what it means to have a clean, perfect stove that will cook anything, boil, bake or roast, and yet won't heat the kitchen. How is it done? The flame is controlled in turquoise-blue enamel chimneys, and directed against the bottom of pot, pan, kettle or oven, and only there. The flame operates exactly where it is needed—on the cookware itself. With this stove your kitchen is cool.

Caution! Not to use you get this stove—read the name-plate reads "New Perfection."

Pictorial Advertising in China.

The possibilities of pictorial advertising in China are limited upon by an American consul. The people have a fondness amounting almost to veneration for pictures. Some fact and knowledge are needed in the production of advertising pictures, one American company having made the serious mistake of using pictures of a dog in its advertising posters, the fact being that dogs in China are looked on as street scavengers.

GREAT LAND SALE

Vast Tract of Rich Land in the Round Lake Country, Wisconsin, for sale by the American Immigration Co. of Chippewa Falls, Wis.

SAME ANOTHER WIDESPREAD

The lumbermen have at last released for settlement their vast tracts of rich Wisconsin land, a total of over 500,000 acres. The very best of this land, comprising 15,000 acres in the famous Round Lake Country, in Sawyer County, Wis. is now being cut up into farms and sold at from $5.50 to $20 per acre on ten years' time.

The low prices and easy terms on which this rich land will be secured challenges the attention of the owner of high-priced land and the tenant farmer as well.

The American Immigration Company's great development plans are rapidly bearing fruit and new towns are being laid out, new railroads are coming, and settlers are busily building homes and getting the land under cultivation.

Those lands are in the very heart of the state's richest dairy section. Clover grows in such abundance that this region is known as the great country for stock raising. The land is capable of producing big crops of grain, fruit and vegetables.

On much of this land there is enough timber to burn for it and furnish all the fuel for free homes, and get the best of the land.

Write for full particulars to the local representative of the company and get the full story of the land.
